Partners In Care of the Carolinas Employee Sharon Davis Wins Prestigious National Award: The Senior's Choice Fall 2011 "Caregiver of the Season"

CHARLOTTE, NC - September 30, 2011 – Charlotte resident Sharon Davis, a professional caregiver and Certified Nursing Assistant with Partners In Care of the Carolinas, has won the prestigious "Caregiver of the Season" Award, bestowed by the world's largest membership network of senior care providers, The Senior's Choice. The award recognizes "dedicated service to seniors" and "caregivers who perform in an exemplary manner and whose efforts help seniors live the dignified, meaningful and socially connected lives they deserve."

Senior staff and supervisors at Partners In Care of the Carolinas ("PICC") see Sharon as the picture of a perfect caregiver. She is dependable, attentive, observant, embodies strong leadership skills, and is always willing to go the extra mile to provide the highest caliber of service to her client. For example, she will often stop by her client's house even when she is not scheduled, so that she can drop off prescriptions, run errands, or do some grocery shopping. As a result of such client-centric, detail-oriented care, she has served the same senior since July 2007, affording a strong sense of continuity for the senior. Sharon provides the kind of "client/caregiver partnership" that is considered ideal in the in-home senior care field. She also values her own continuing education and improvement, as evidenced by the fact that she has completed every in-service offered by PICC and regularly attends the company's nutritional cooking classes. Sharon is always eager to learn more so that she can better serve her clients. She is a true model for other caregivers, and hence she has become a PICC team leader and peer mentor.

Sally Olin, director and co-owner of PICC, summed it up: "Sharon is the embodiment of the ideal caregiver. As she expressed in her initial interview with us, she genuinely loves caring for others, and this love is clear in the way that she treats her clients and performs her assignments. We are so proud of her!"

Steve Everhart, President and CEO of The Senior's Choice, expressed his admiration of PICC founders Don and Sally Olin. "It is your leadership that inspires your caregivers to be the exceptional people they are," said Everhart.
